ANTI INTELLECTUALISM

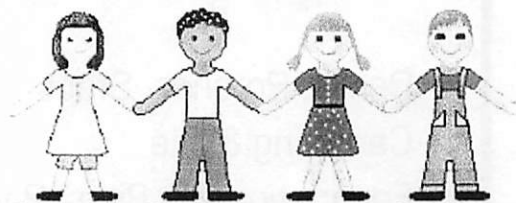

has been a constant thread winding its way through our political and cultural life, nurtured by the false notion that democracy means that my ignorance is just as good as your knowledge.

—Isaac Asimov, American author and professor of biochemistry —

DID YOU KNOW? January (in Latin, Ianuarius) is named after Janus, the God of beginnings and transitions; the name has its beginnings in Roman mythology, coming from the Latin word for door (ianua) since January is the door to the year. <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/January> Middle English Januarie, from Latin Ianuarius, 1st month of the ancient Roman year, from Janus. First Known Use: 14th century. <http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/january>

ISAAC ASIMOV QUOTES

It is change, continuing change, inevitable change, that is the dominant factor in society today. No sensible decision can be made any longer without taking into account not only the world as it is, but the world as it will be.

If my doctor told me I had only six minutes to live, I wouldn't brood. I'd type a little faster.

The saddest aspect of life right now is that science gathers knowledge faster than society gathers wisdom.

The true delight is in the finding out rather than in the knowing.

The most exciting phrase to hear in science, the one that heralds new discoveries, is not 'Eureka!' but 'That's funny...'

THINGS TO THROW AWAY (RIGHT NOW)

1. Your dish sponge. You should replace them every month or so, in addition to cleaning them regularly in the dishwasher or microwave.
2. Your gross old shoes full of holes. If you want to get rid of shoes that are in serviceable condition, donate them to an organization such as Soles4Souls.
3. Those clothes you've had for years but just never got around to wearing. Sell them at your local consignment store, donate them to charity, or give them to a similarly-sized friend/cousin/work buddy.
4. Expired makeup. Makeup has an expiration date, and not tossing it when it gets old could cause you skin problems or even infections.
5. Sad bras/sad underwear. You know which ones. They're your drop-dead, last-resort choices.
6. Your toothbrush. Remember to swap yours out every three to four months.
7. That half-finished project that will never get finished.
8. Any socks with holes and/or that have no mates.
9. Old technology. Including to CDs you've already uploaded, VHS tapes you've already recorded over, and any monitor you've even briefly consider turning into something else.
10.  Old batteries and lightbulbs. There is a certain category of junk that is small enough to kind of ignore but also relatively scary, i.e., How do you even get rid of it. Check Lowe's or HomeDepot for recycling suggestions.
11. Old dish towels (and regular towels). Many animal shelters accept towels as donations, but use your judgment re: how worn out they are.
12. Like 99% of whatever's in your junk drawer. Keep the scissors and the roll of tape and show the rest the door.
13. Your pillows. Think about how objectively oily/hairy/gross your head is, and then imagine systematically rubbing it on something for seven to eight hours a night for years and years and years.
14. Hangers you got from the dry cleaner.
15. Stacks of magazines and newspapers.
16. Old paint.
17. Old spices.
18. Toys that nobody wants.
19. Your contact lens case.
20. Expired canned food.
21. And while you're at it, unsubscribe from all those useless email lists that constantly flood your inbox.

Now step away from your computer, turn off your phone, and go toss all that "stuff" that's been keeping you from being the person you know you can be. You'll feel downright invincible.

DO YOU HAVE TOO MUCH YARN?

Extra yarn may be donated to S.M.A.R.T., a Military/Honorably Discharged Veterans' RV club.

S.M.A.R.T. takes the yarn to personnel in the Miramar brig who knit lap robes for patients in the VA Hospital.

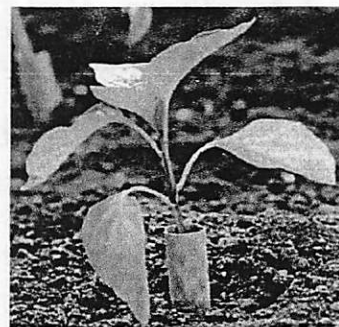

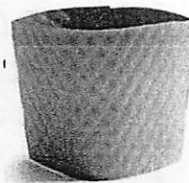

Please call Joleen at 858-279-6088 to coordinate gathering the yarn and to contact the S.M.A.R.T. members to request pick-up.

Thank you for your donations.

SIMPLE PEST PREVENTION

To protect seedlings and young transplants from cutworm damage, just save the thick cardboard sleeve, like you see below, that comes around to-go cups of coffee or other hot beverages.

When it's time to make sure cutworms don't chew off new growth, gently open up each ring at its seam and cut the cardboard strip into halves. Tightly roll each piece up again and secure it with clear tape. Set the rings over seedlings and pat them down into the soil to create an effective cutworm collar. Refer to photo.

ENVIRONMENTALLY FRIENDLY TIPS

1. Take a fast fashion break. Try taking a break from fast fashion for a few months and invest in organic and/or sustainable garments. A good place to start is <http://overdressedthebook.com/alternatives.html>
2. Ways to cut down on water use: Turn off the faucet while brushing your teeth; only wash full loads of laundry (in cold water); drink tap water instead of bottled; wash dishes by hand a few days a week; scrape rather than rinse dishes before loading the dishwasher; keep a pitcher of water in the fridge instead of letting the faucet run until the water is cold.
3. Ditch the coffee stirrer. According to 50 Ways to Help, Americans toss 138 billion straws and stirrers yearly. A clever alternative: put your sugar and milk in first, and then pour in the coffee, and it should be well mixed. Stir your brewed-at-home coffee, with a piece of pasta, then dissolve it in water, or throw it away with less guilt.
4. Repair your shoes and clothes. Instead of tossing worn-in shoes, take them to a shoe-maker to get them cleaned up, resoled, re-dyed, or re-heeled. Same goes for clothes — a good tailor can repair almost anything.
5. Check out Greenpeace's Detox Fashion Manifesto.
6. Get moving. When the weather is nice, walk or bike to a destination at least once a week.
7. A no-brainer: Simply shut off all the lights before you leave in the morning, and unplug electrical equipment that you aren't using during the day and while you sleep — especially your work and home computers.
8. Need to give a gift? Create unique wrapping paper by using glossy magazines you already have, newspaper, or brown paper grocery bags, instead of store-bought generic paper.
9. Try a meat-free diet one or two days a week to decrease the resources you use. According to worldwildlife.org, it takes about 750 liters of water to produce one (1) kilogram of wheat, and it takes 100,000 liters of water to produce one (1) kilogram of beef. That's a huge difference.
10. Start keeping your calendar digitally. It uses less paper. At work, try using your Smart-phone's many reminder or list-making apps, or your computer calendar program.
11. Replace your light bulbs! If every household in the United State replaced one regular light bulb with one of the new compact fluorescent bulbs, the pollution reduction would be equivalent to removing one million cars from the road, according to 50 Ways to Help.
12. Try buying food from local farmers or farmers' markets at least once a month. This reduces greenhouse gases created when products are flown or trucked in.
13. Adjust the thermostat. Go a few degrees higher in the summer and a few degrees lower in the winter if your health allows it.
14. Invest in a reusable cup for your morning coffee, and one for the water you sip throughout the day. Same goes for bringing reusable grocery bags or totes for your shopping.
15. Donate all unwanted clothes, and consider buying second-hand for big-ticket items like bikes, stereos, computers, TVs, or other large purchases. Craigslist and Freecycle are good places to start.
No more wire hangers (sort of.) Since wire hangers aren't taken by all recyclers. Ask your dry cleaner to take them back when you are done with them.
16. Pay all your bills online. It's so easy to sign up for paperless billing!
17. Pour a dash of vodka into vase water. This extends the life of your flowers and plants.
18. Consider replacing your shower head with a low-flow version.

CURRENT EVENTS:

Reaching the end of a job interview, the Human Resources Officer asked a young engineer fresh out of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, "And what starting salary are you looking for?"

The engineer replied, "In the region of $125,000 a year, depending on the benefits package."

The interviewer inquired, "Well, what would you say to a package of five weeks vacation, 14 paid holidays, full medical and dental, company matching retirement fund to 50% of salary, and a company car leased every two years, say, a red Corvette?"

The engineer sat up straight and exclaimed, "Wow! Are you kidding?"

The interviewer answered, "Yeah, but you started it."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

A college student challenged a senior citizen saying it was impossible for their generation to understand his. "You grew up in a different world," the student said. "Today we have television, jet planes, space travel, nuclear energy, computers . . ."

Taking advantage of a pause in the student's litany, the senior said, "You're right. We didn't have those things when we were young. So we invented them!"

There was a man who entered a local paper's pun contest. He sent in ten different puns, in the hope that at least one of the puns would win. Unfortunately, no pun in ten did.

QUOTES

The secret of getting ahead is getting started. — Mark Twain

If only it were all so simple! If only there were evil people somewhere insidiously committing evil deeds, and it were necessary only to separate them from the rest of us and destroy them. WHAT ACTIVITIES AND EVENTS WOULD YOU LIKE FOR THE PARK?

Please put the form in the Suggestion Box

Your Name and best method of contact:

START SAVING BOTTLES NOW SODA BOTTLE DRIP FEEDER — DIY Project

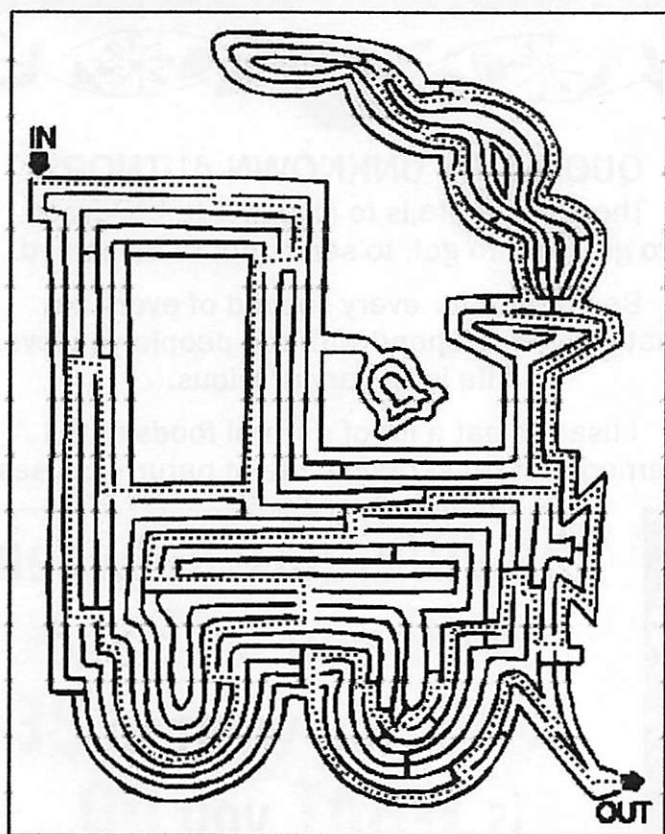

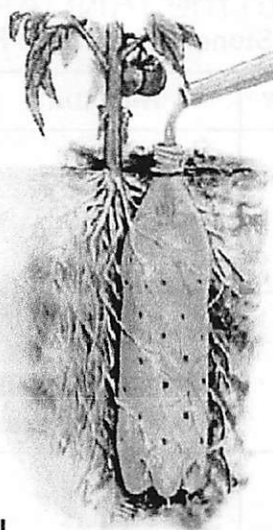

Drip feeders are great for a variety of different vegetables.

Most vegetables prefer the moisture at their roots rather than overhead sprinklers which can encourage some leaf problems.

There are many retail products available but this Soda Bottle Drip Feeder makes use of recycled materials and works really well.

Just take a large 2 liter soda bottle and use barbeque skewers to poke holes in it. (Fewer holes than this image shows would provide a very slow release but it depends on how dry your soil gets.)

Insert the soda bottle into the space next to the plant when it is young and leave the top off. Leave the top exposed. When it gets empty, just top it up from the hose.

NATURAL WAYS TO KEEP SPIDERS OUT OF YOUR HOME

- Mint: An easy way to keep spiders from invading your space is to fill a spray bottle with peppermint essential oil) and water, to spray around.
- Clean It Up: The cheapest and most organic way to repel spiders naturally is probably not the easiest. Keeping your home neat, tidy and free of dust or webs is the best way to keep spiders from moving in. Regular vacuuming, dusting, and de-cluttering will keep any insects from making themselves at home.
- Use Vinegar: Repelling spiders with vinegar is much like repelling them with peppermint oil, in that you fill a spray bottle with vinegar and water, and spray all the cracks and crevices.
- Enlist the Help of A Furry Friend: Cats are a great spider deterrent. Four-legged furry friends can be great hunters and definitely hunt spiders down.
- Don't Let Them In: A great way to keep spiders out of your home is to never let them in in the first place! Make sure the exterior of your home is free from leaves, grass clippings, wood piles, or any other well-known spider hangouts. You can also check all door openings and windowsills to make sure there isn't room for spiders to get in that way, and apply caulk when needed.
- Citrus Does the Trick: Rubbing citrus peels on areas where spiders are known to frequent, like baseboards, windowsills and bookshelves, is a great way to keep them from coming around. Even lemon scented furniture polish can drive spiders away.
- Let Cedar Do the Work: Cedar can be a great deterrent for spiders. You can use cedar mulch outside around the perimeter of your home to try to keep spiders from ever getting inside. If you have access to a cedar chest or cedar hangers to use in your closet, that is also a good choice. Use cedar blocks or shavings inside closets, cupboards or drawers.
- Chestnuts: They have been known to drive away spiders, so place a few in windowsills or along baseboards can keep spiders from hanging out there. Many people also believe that the same thing can be done with an Osage orange (also known as a hedgeapple). Chestnuts and hedgeapples can be kept in the house for a long time before they go bad.

UNUSUAL GARDEN CONTAINERS

- Metal industrial pipes can make great modern containers. They could also be a garden border or lawn edging. See photo at left.
- Use a hollowed out log or stump.

- Old rusted tool boxes.
- Recycled tires.
- Old, free wooden pallets.
- Concrete cinder blocks.
- A burlap shoe caddy!

ANOTHER IDEA for a small garden. River rocks in a spiral.

The glory of life is to love, not to be loved;
to give, not to get; to serve, not to be served.

Be grateful for every second of every day
