

The CONNECTOR

The Kearney Lodge Park Library, in the Clubhouse, is kept in order by one of our neighbors. The books are alphabetized by authors. Thank you for your help but please put books in the return box and not refile them yourself. (Some of the books are filed out of order.)

Thanks, Carolyn

CHANGE FOR KEARNEY LODGE COMMUNITY CONNECTION MEETING IN MARCH!

The meeting will be on the FIRST Saturday; March 7th, at 2:00 pm, in the Clubhouse at the front of the Park.

All residents are invited to attend and share ideas and comments.

"BEST YARD" OF THE MONTH FEBRUARY 2020 — Unit #313

Our Best Yard winner featured in this March 2020 issue is Unit #313 near the front of the Park. On the right side is a very nice decoratively-paved driveway. To its right is a row of Italian Cypress trees.

In the front are two bamboo plants in a rock base. To the left of the bamboo is an assortment of drought-tolerant plants, some in a raised planter and others in large pots, plus some planted in the ground.

The front entryway has a small patio area covered by a vine for privacy. Everything is clean and weed-free; inviting and attractive. Very well done!

AFTER BULBS BLOOM — Many spring bulbs finish blooming this month. Some, like tulips and hyacinths, are annuals in our climate and can be yanked from the ground when the flowers fade. Others, like daffodils and baboon flowers (Babiana), will return next year. To keep them vigorous and encourage them to naturalize or multiply, cut off spent flower stalks but leave the foliage to continue to provide nutrients to replenish the bulbs. A light feeding helps this process. Remove leaves only after they turn yellow or brown. If they become unsightly, they can be tucked out of sight. WORD OF THE MONTH — WEED

A weed is a plant considered undesirable in a particular situation, "a plant in the wrong place". Examples commonly are plants unwanted in human-controlled settings, such as farm fields, gardens, lawns, and parks. Taxonomically, the term "weed" has no botanical significance, because a plant that is a weed in one context is not a weed when growing in a situation where it is in fact wanted, and where one species of plant is a valuable crop plant, another species in the same genus might be a serious weed, such as a wild bramble growing among cultivated loganberries. In the same way, volunteer crops (plants) are regarded as weeds in a subsequent crop. Many plants that people widely regard as weeds also are intentionally grown in gardens and other cultivated settings, in which case they are sometimes called beneficial weeds. The term weed also is applied to any plant that grows or reproduces aggressively, or is invasive outside its native habitat. More broadly "weed" occasionally is applied pejoratively to species outside the plant kingdom, species that can survive in diverse environments and reproduce quickly; in this sense it has even been applied to humans.

Source: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Weed>

WEEDS

A dandelion is a common plant all over the world, especially in Europe, Asia, and the Americas.

It is a well-known example of a plant that is considered a weed in some contexts (such as lawns) but not a weed in others (such as when it is used as a vegetable or herbal medicine).

A weed is but an unloved flower.

— Ella Wheeler Wilcox —

When life is not coming up roses
Look to the weeds and find the beauty hidden within them.

— L. F. Young —

Weeds are just someone else's flowers. — Anthony T. Hincks
